TO THE EDITOR OF THE NATIONAL WHIG.

Siz: In your paper of this morning you have done me the injustice to speak of me in such a manner as to imply that I was employed by the late Commissioner of Patents to write or transcribe political-articles for the Tulon or other Democratic journals.

I trust this injustice has been unintensional on your part, and that you will gadly certect it by allowing me to place as conspicuously and as early as possible in your columns a prompt and emphatic denial, and thus to say that your informant, whoever her may be, has either unintentionally or purposely deceived you, since there is not the shadow of truth in his assertion. I havever been known as a Whig, and have ever sought laboriously and faithfully to discharge my duties in the Patent Office, not deeming it a part of them to meddle with politics.

To those who know me this statement is not needed, but your paper will doubtless be read by many who are utter strangers to me, and I will not doubt that you will hereafter abstain from any similar charge, as well as to retract what is so foreign to my character and past history, especially as it is not many weeks since you cited my case as one of proscription under the late Democratic administration.
